Principal Member of the Stirling Community Theatre

Summer 2024

From the President

2023 was another very successful year with three very different and wonderful productions. We started the year with Speaking in Tongues by Andrew Bovell, beautifully directed by Geoff Brittain, and superbly acted by a talented cast.

In July, we presented the Pulitzer Prize winning drama The Flick, by Annie Baker. Directed by Riordan Miller-Frost, this play celebrated the talents of our younger arts members, in direction, management, acting and support crew.

Our final production in September was the frenetic, hilarious Accidental Death of an Anarchist by Dario Fo. Expertly directed by Lesley Reed and acted by an incredibly energetic and talented cast. What better way to finish the year!

My thanks go to all the directors, cast, crew and other volunteers who have given of their time and shared their many and various talents with us to make 2023 such a success.

Our thanks go to the Stirling Community Theatre Committee for supporting two productions in 2024. This March and April, the Stirling Players will present the Antipodean premiere of The Explorers Club! Filled to the brim with late Victorian manners, curious twists and turns and colourful characters, Nell Benjamin's 2013 play crackles with energy and laughter. In September we will present Sylvia, a romantic comedy about a dog and her humans set in New York city!

The 2024 Annual General Meeting will be held on Sunday 11 February at 4.00pm in the Rehearsal Room at the Stirling Theatre. If you would like to join the The Stirling Players committee, please contact me on 0404 555 808 for further details.

AUSTRALIAN PREMIERE "THE EXPLORERS CLUB"

Written by Nell Benjamin
Directed by Emily Currie

Fridays, 22 March, & 5, 12 April at 7.30pm
Saturdays, 23 March, & 6 April at 3.00pm
Saturday, 13 April at 7.30pm
Sunday, 24 March & 7 April at 3.00pm

The Explorers Club has invited Miss Phyllida Spotte-Hume to present the findings from her most recent expedition to an undisclosed location in South America. This is notable because the place she has said to have been was considered mythical, and she's a woman. Will the illustrious 1879 world of British Scientific society allow such a scandal? Or could it result in a bigger scandal...say treason?

Nell Benjamin re-writes a farcical history centred around the late Victorian scientific community in a ridiculous, bombastic style reminiscent of 'Blackadder'. In the tradition of farce all the situations are outrageous but the characters play them with sincerity. Using historically held assumptions about women and other cultures Benjamin has intertwined caricatures of 1879 austerity for satirical commentary relevant to a modern audience.

Director Emily Currie, has cast a fantastic group of actors from the Hills, Fleurieu and Adelaide to perform the play, and is looking forward to diving into rehearsals this January. Bob Peet's set design will create an opulent and welcoming Victorian gentleman's club within the Stirling Community Theatre, a homage to the style of the time, with quirky additions thrown in. Perfect conditions for a sherry and a good laugh!

Book early to avoid disappointment. Tickets on sale:

What the reviewers said.....

Accidental Death of an Anarchist

Barry Lenny, Broadway World

Reed has brought together a very experienced group of performers....There is a great deal of energy and enthusiasm

Daniel Barnett, Glam Adelaide

The set is brilliant, perfectly encapsulating the Stirling space.

Mark Wickett, Stage Whispers

This hilarious absurdist comedy is a well-polished production..... Gilian Cordell's and Louise Lapans' costumes with Kathryn Stevens' hairstyles are stars of the show as much as the performers.....What Director Reed has achieved is to bring a stage overflowing with superb acting talent, thrown in elements of Marx (Groucho more than Karl), a dash of Commedia dell'Arte, and lashings of hot, contemporary satire, to deliver a cracking, comical story with a dark undertone, that excels in all aspects of its production. There are not many plays you can chuckle through from curtain up to house lights, yet still emerge shocked and informed about the ongoing corruption of power.

David Smith, TASA

This rendition of "Accidental Death of an Anarchist" provided a thought- provoking take on Dario Fo's work..... It showcased the dedication and hard work of the cast and crew. The world of theatre is diverse, and this production certainly contributes to its rich tapestry.
